A SPRING EPIGRAPH.

They laid him in his box of wood,
You after-moment hands;
He thought the spring had come for good,
And shed his winter hands.

Missing Links.

Nanking is the largest walled city in the world. It is at least 2,500 years old.

Little oak trees, an inch and a half high, are grown by Chinese gardeners. They take root in thimbles.

The pansy can be grown black, white, and all intermediate shades, the only deficiency being in the scarlet and allied hues.

Women nowadays are generally acknowledged to be an inch or two taller, and two or three inches greater in chest development than their grandmothers were.

Some of the tops with which Chinamen amuse themselves are as large as barrels. It takes three men to split one, and gives off a sound that may be heard several hundred yards.

The oldest joint stock company now existing is the New River Company, of London, which was incorporated by Royal charter in the year 1619. Its shares now bring almost fabulous prices.

The mole is not blind, as many persons suppose, according to an English authority. Its eyes are hardly larger than a pin head and is carefully protected from dust and dirt by means of inclosed hairs.

Diamonds may be black as well as white, and some are blue, red, brown, yellow, green, pink and orange; but there is no violet diamond, but although in addition to amethysts, there are sapphires, rubies and garnets of that color.

New Zealand has invented a unique method for the prevention of Intemperance. It proposes to pass a law to the effect that any person convicted of being a habitual drunkard shall be photographed at his own expense and a copy be supplied to every salaried keeper in the district. The dealer supplying liquor to such a person is to be fined.

In the Comstock mines of Virginia, Nevada, is probably the most extraordinary water power plant in the world. The wheel is at the bottom of the shaft 1610 feet below the surface. The water is brought from a stream 400 feet above the top of the shaft, to the total head of water at the wheel is no less than 2,100 feet, equal to a pressure of 911 pounds.

The astonishing and inhuman possibility of building up living animals from parts of several animals has been demonstrated by Dr. C. Born, a German physiologist. The experiments were made with tadpoles and other larvae of amphibians. Each of these were cut in two, and different parts were placed together in various ways, when some of them united. The hinder more readily than the fore part. Two hinder parts, each with or without a head, united within twenty-four hours, the monstrosity living and growing for a week or more.

Venezuela has granted concessions to some United States citizens within the territory that Great Britain is trying to grab from her. That will bring us right into the controversy, with the Monroe doctrine back of us.

In Valparaiso, there are women conductors on the street cars, who collect the fares and talk back with great energy to female passengers who complain about the neglect and incompetence of the competence of the companies employees.

Investigation shows that the common sundowner exhales twelve ounces of water in twelve hours, and an oak tree, with an estimated number of 700,000 leaves, would in the same way give off something like 700 tons of water during the five months it carries its foliage.

To the Republicans of Montgomery County:

Mr. John C. Wood having resigned the position of Chairman of the County Committee, I take this method of making known to you my aspirations to succeed him, and if elected pledge my most conscientious and intelligent efforts to properly discharge the duties involved.

IT'S A PEACH.

This Story of a Big Fish With False Teeth.

The "boys," young and old, were collected around the store in the tavern one winter evening, when the talk turned upon fishing in general, and catching bullheads in particular.

"Say, Uncle Jesse, didn't you catch an all-fired big pout down in Massagosa a few years ago?" said Cy Smith, addressing one of the elders of the party.

"Wall, yes, I did, for a fact; the biggest pout I ever see, or any one else, I guess," replied the veteran. "How much did it weigh?" cried several voices.

"Wall," said he, after a few moments of silence, "yer see, durin' the winter Iver Daam had no'n cuttin' ice on the pond for Joe Goodrich, Xaw, you know Iver had a kin' a queer critter, allus studyin' over mathematics or phenology, or some such stuff; didn't know what he was doin' half the time. Wall, he was cuttin' ice there all alone with a cross-cut-saw—that was 'fore these ice-plovers had been got up—and the first thing he knew he had sawed off the very cake he was standing on, and down he went. 'By cracky,' he said 'I thought I was a goner, but I c'd just reach the ice ladder and pull myself out, but the saw went to the bottom.' Wall, 'long next May I went down there one evenin' with one of the Walker boys—Art, I believe 'twas—thought we'd get a mess 'o pouts. We had pretty good luck for a while; then they stopped bitin'.

ST. JOHN A WIFE-MURDERER.

Son of Kansas' Temperance Governor Commits the Crime From Jealousy.

Oklahoma, City, O. T., April 3.—Hearst St. John, son of ex-Governor John P. St. John of Kansas, and a member of the last Oklahoma Legislature, shot and killed his wife this afternoon at his home, two miles west of this city. By some means he had become possessed of a letter addressed to her, and demanded to know the writer. This afternoon about 3 o'clock he hired a buggy and drove out to his place, and securing a gun confronted his wife with the letter, threatening to kill her if she did not disclose the author. She refused, and as he claims, the gun was discharged accidentally, shooting her through the heart. She died without uttering a word. Mrs. St. John was a Miss May Felson. Her father Willard Felson, was County Judge of Saginaw county, Col., and later Warden of the Colorado State Penitentiary. She was about twenty-eight years of age, and her husband is about thirty-five, a lawyer by profession, and who has lived in Oklahoma since 1888. St. John is under arrest but refuses to talk.

The dead woman was St. John's second wife. His first wife, who is now living in Illinois, secured a divorce from him in 1887, alleging drunkenness.

Got Their Demands.

Cannelton, Ind., April 2.—The demands of the female employees who struck yesterday afternoon in action mill for shorter hours, were acceded to this morning.

NECK BROKEN.

Brutal Murder of a Lewis County Woman.

Husband and Mother Arrested Charged With the Crime.

Vanceburg, Ky., April 3.—The people in this county are wrought up to an intense pitch over a brutal murder committed Saturday night. The body of Mrs. Mary Cornes, wife of John Cornes, who it was first thought had died of heart disease and was buried Monday, was to-day exhumed and an inquest held by Magistrate Fisher, Acting Coroner.

It was discovered that the woman's neck had been broken. Jno. Cornes and his aged mother, Harriet Cornes, seventy-six years old, were at once arrested and brought here and lodged in jail.

At the inquest, which took place six miles west of here, on the farm of John Monteith, other strong evidences of murder were revealed. There was a large bruise on the side of the dead woman's neck, from which blood had flowed through the bedtick, which was made of straw. About two feet square of the bedtick had been cut out and destroyed and the straw burned. Fresh straw had been put in and the bed patched. Large spots of blood were found on the floor in many places and an attempt to wash them away had been made by some one.

It was developed that no one but the two accused, the deceased and two small children were present on the night of the murder. It was further proved that Cornes and his wife had frequent altercations and lived unhappily, although he said he had never struck her. Cornes admitted that they did quarrel. His mother said they had never had any trouble of any kind.

It was shown that the woman was in good health Saturday afternoon and the husband and mother told widely different stories as to what was done when they discovered that the woman was dead. The inhuman husband could hardly be persuaded to attend the funeral Monday, and instead of going with the corpse went along the fields.

John Cornes, although a poor man, is related to some of the best people in this county. His mother unwittingly said that before she would tell anything on her son she would drown herself in the Ohio river. The excitement is high at this point, and the people are becoming aroused over the prevalence of crime and the laxity of the offenders.

The Ashland Sun reports a queer incident at Cattletsburg as the result of a smallpox scare. Charles Rule, an employee of a lumber company, did not feel well enough to go to work one day last week, and it was rumored he had smallpox. The Board of Health quarantined his house, but on examination was made by a physician to determine whether the case was smallpox. The next day Rule wanted to go to work, but was not permitted to leave the house by the physician. An Ashland physician stated that he did not believe that Rule had smallpox, but would not make an examination for less than $150. As Rule did not happen to have $150 just at that time he was a prisoner for several hours. Later he was allowed to go to work.

Notice to M. W. Anderson's Creditors.

J. H. Oldham, assignee in trust for M. W. Anderson, assigned, will on April 2, 1895, in the law office of T. J. Bigsbee, in Mt. Sterling, Ky., to receive claims against said estate. Any creditor failing to present at the time named, within three months thereafter, his claim, verified in the same manner as claims against the estates of decedents, except that it need not be verified by a person other than the claimant, shall be deemed to have waived his right to any part of the assigned estate.

OLD SOUTHERN MANSIONS.

They Had a Dignified Air and a Distinct Architecture.

The oldest mansions in Richmond, Charleston, Savannah, Montgomery Mobile and New Orleans have an air of distinction about the which the newer architecture can never acquire. They were built by men who desired to live in comfort and to entertain their friends in an open-handed way but who did not find it necessary to attract attention and to advertise their wealth and social position. The exteriors are still massive and stately, with their unbroken, rectangular sides, their doric columns and colonial porches, and the interiors are unrivalled for comfort and convenience of home life and social entertainment. With these fine models of classic simplicity in town and country, it is to be regretted that the new houses on fashionable driveways and streets are not designed by architects content to follow the old lines. The colonial architecture was not without its effect upon the character and tastes of the people who lived in the houses. It taught them to be simple in their social pleasures, to be natural and unaffected in manner, and to avoid meretricious display of wealth and dignity. There has been a reversion to colonial lines in Northern houses. Perhaps there will be a similar movement in the direction of purer taste and more refined feeling in Southern towns.

There are many fine things to be said about these Southern houses, but the choicest tribute must be reserved for the lovely old ladies who are to be found in the most of them. The young ladies and the middle-aged wives and mothers are charming, too, with their sensitive, high bred faces and their soft melodious voices, but the old ladies are exceptionally well preserved in figure and feature and delightful in conversation. Montaigne said of Cicero's "De Senectute," "It gives one a good appetite for growing old," and the same impression is produced by the cheerful, genial, yet calm and serious talk of the best representatives of the generation of Southern women. They do not affect to be young, yet have not lost their animation of manner or their interest in life. They are entertaining, womanly and bright, and quick as their granddaughters to perceive a good point in a story, and as fine as chess players in the tread and texture of their homely simplicity and cheerfulness. There are good portraits of famous ancestors in some of the old houses, but there are no better studies of lights and shades of advancing age and of the compensations attending increasing infirmity in the evening of life than are to be found in the Carolinas, Georgia and Tennessee.—New York Tribune.

GROVER'S BROTHER

Asked to Resign as Pastor of the Chaumont N. Y. Presbyterian Church.

Watertown, N. Y., April 3.—By a vote of 28 to 1, during an exciting session, the congregation of the Presbyterian church at Chaumont, this county, last evening decided to ask the Rev. William Cleveland, brother of President Cleveland, to tender his resignation of the pastorate. It is reported that politics have been a distracting element, although Mr. Cleveland took no part in politics. Mr. Cleveland will appeal to the Presbytery.

Live Coals.

We are always looking into the future, but we see only the past.

He who wishes to secure the good of others has already secured his own. Self-respect has been called the gate of heaven, and a degree of reserve adds to the latent force of character.

A man cannot foretell what pattern he will next behold in the kaleidoscope, but he may form many wise conclusions as to what he will not see there.

Every day brings its peculiar delight; every denial its appropriate compensation; every thought its recompense; every love its elysium; every cross its crown; pay goes with performance, as duty with gain; charity transfigures; we do not live on credit but are paid what we earn.

Selecting, as they thought, a quiet interlude, they were passing out of the stalls, when an actor suddenly appeared on the stage, and repeating a part of his role, exclaimed:

The Big Show Coming!

Mr. Geo. H. Robinson, General Contracting Agent of the Great Wallace Shows, was in the city last week, arranging for the Big Shows, which will exhibit here Friday, May 17th. Mr. Robinson, who is one of the oldest and best known agents in the circus business, having been identified with the large shows of the country for twenty-five years past, informs the Advocate that the expenses of the Great Wallace Shows run from $2,200 to $4,000 per day, the larger part of which sum is expended in the city where they exhibit. This is a tidy figure, and in dull times like these the show should be eagerly welcomed and liberally patronized by all classes of the community.

The Modern "Big Circus" is an institution peculiar to America. The old world shows are small comparatively, and the mammoth concerns we have are therefore characteristic to our country and our people and even if the lion on the fence is larger than the lion in the cage, no man visiting the up-to-date, Three Ring Circus has ever heard to say he did not get his money's worth over and over again. Long may the Great American Circus wave, and continue to delight and dazzle the young and the old with its "multitudinous monopoly of all that is magnificent and marvelous on this mundane sphere," to borrow the language of the poets.

Disturbed a Bear.

Charles E. Hazen, of Blooming Grove, Pike county, Pennsylvania, went "poon hunting" last week in the swamps near Park Mills, and fell into a hole where a big black bear was taking his winter's nap. He made no effort to escape, and in doing so he tripped on a snag and was thrown at on his back. Bruin in the meantime being aroused from his slumbers by the sudden intrusion, gazed around to see what the trouble was, and seeing Hazen, with an ugly look and a deep growl, he made for the prostrate hunter. Hazen had clung fast to his gun, which had never gone back on him as long as he was able to carry it. Taking good aim he emptied both barrels, which was loaded with fine shot, in the bear's face. Although stunned and blinded, the beast was wilder than ever, and endeavored to get at the hunter to read him into pieces, but Hazen retreated a few steps, reloading his gun with buckshot and steel, and the bear fell dead. It weighed over 300 pounds.—New York Sun.

CHARLES REIS, The Saddler.

No. 28 S. Mayville street, North of Depot.

The steamer New South arrived at Paducah the other day with a short crew. The officers of the boat were unable to employ hands to unload the cargo, although many negroes were loading around the levee. Thirty-five cents an hour was offered, but, as none of the negroes desired to work, the police brought the matter to a crisis by ordering the idlers to go to work or to the lockup. As working for thirty-five cents an hour was preferable to breaking rock on the street for nothing, the boat was soon unloaded.

In Fort Worth, Texas, Dr. W. E. Davis, a well-known physician of Louisville, and a white nurse were arrested and lodged in jail, charged with the murder of Lulu Burles, a beautiful young woman, who died under suspicious circumstances in a hotel several nights ago.

A citizen of Georgetown was brought before the police court at that place, charged with violating the Sunday law by selling ice on the Sabbath. The Judge decided that ice is a necessity. A baker was fined for selling bread on the Sabbath a short time ago.

The Delinquent for April

is called the Spring Announcement Number, and is a most excellent specimen of this most popular woman's magazine. Supplementary to the regular issue of patterns there is a timely article on Bicycling, with illustrations of costumes, that will interest all lovers of the wheel. The papers on The Voice, which were interrupted by the illness of the author, are resumed; and there is begun a most practical series on Preservation and Renovation, the first installment treating of the putting away and care of furs. Mrs. Roger A. Pryor writes very entertainingly on the etiquette of first calls and introductions, giving the accepted usages and formulas; and the second paper on The Experience of a Training School Life increases the interest already felt in the subject. The Dean of Harvard College contributes a charmingly written article on a Girl's Life and Work at the University of Chicago, of which she was a Fellow, 1893-94; Belle Pierson Springer writes forcibly of Type setting as an employment for women; and Sara Miller Kirby gives further instruction in Kindergarten Teaching. How to Make Dolls' Houses is shown in Croquet and Tennis, new and exceedingly pretty designs are given in Yacht and Iron Work, Knitting, Tatting, Netting and Crocheting, and the chapter on Burnt Leather Works gives illustrations and information of the necessary tools implements and advice to beginners. The Cookery article gives recipes for some new dishes, there is a paper on the Serving of Pineapples and Grape Fruit, one on Table Decoration, and the usual contribution on Floral Culture. Around the Tea-Table is bright and entertaining. The Son is earnest and instructive, and a Novel Salmagundi Party suggests a delightful evening's amusement. There is also a review of The Newest Books, some Instrumental Music and an Easter Carol.

Notes For Women.

Combing and rubbing the scalp with the hand is said to relieve the headache and stimulate the growth of hair.

Try two or three spoonfuls of kerosene in a bucket of water for washing windows or looking glass. It lessens the work.

An experienced cabinet maker says the best preparation for cleaning picture frames and restoring furniture, especially that somewhat marred or scratched, is a mixture of three parts of linseed oil and one part spirits of turpentine. It not only covers the disfigured surface, but restores wood to its original color, leaving a lustre upon the surface. Apply with a woollen cloth and when dry rub with woolen.

Man is a rich argosy, carrying a cargo of marvelous faculties and powers, sailing on a voyage of discovery, but possesses also of many traps and traditions of a happier shore.

Careful Preparation for Oats Pays

In this respect the oat crop is abused more than any other. Tests at the Ohio station for three years show that the common method of putting in oats on clay soil without first plowing the ground may involve a loss of five bushels to the acre compared with sowing on land that has been plowed and harrowed.

The Board of Control of the Woman's College at Baltimore has granted the petition of the girls, that men be excluded from their gymnasium on exhibitions.

Business Outlook.

Grand street—Review speaking of the business outlook says:
The appearance of more settled weather, together with the announced increase in prices for lessener pig iron and steel billets, continued strength of cotton, stimulating manufacturers to demand higher prices for felt and heavy rains in northwestern wheat regions, where greatly needed; further increase in wages of industrial employes, heavier shipments of wheat abroad, and the rush of the volume of the week's bank clearings above the $1,000,000,000 mark are evidences of the continuation of a better feeling in trade circles and returning confidence in many lines of business.
Carter county is enjoying very seasonably to the collection of the obnoxious railroad tax. Some three hundred men called on a deputy collector, near Danton, on Friday night. They did not find him.

An Eloquent (?) Charge.

In his charge to the Grand Jury yesterday, Judge Cooper fairly outdid himself. Extracts from his charges on such occasions have furnished much amusement for the boys around town, and have been relished for the entertainment of many judges in other portions of the State, but before his effort of yesterday, all former efforts pale in insignificance.

In charging the Grand Jury he devoted a very large part of his two hours' talk to abuse of the Advocates. There were no words of abuse too bitter for him to heap upon it. "A dirty sheet," "A lying sheet," the editors of which would rather tell a lie than the truth," "An infamous sheet that is good for nothing but to retail slanders and lies," are a few, not by any means all, or the most choice of his references to a paper that had dared to criticize him.

We did not have the opportunity of hearing all his choice, choice and elegant tirade, liberally interspersed with what "I dare say," and what "You have seen," but we heard enough of it to fill us with a supreme pity for the man who deliberately threw, as a sop to his passion, all the dignity and sense of, even, common decency, which attaches to the position he occupies.

In the estimation of every man who heard him, and for whose good opinion we care a fathoming, he did himself an irreparable injury, and the paper he attacked no harm. What time he did not spend in abusing the Advocate, he largely occupied in throwing bouquets at himself, and in telling the Grand Jury what a pure, immaculate man he is, until, as a gentleman remarked to us when we had left the Court House, "He needs but to spread out all his sins and give to the pack, in order to be perfect indeed."

He gave us good ground for telling both him and the world at large, some very unpleasant truths in reply to his tirade against us. For the present we shall refrain from anything of the kind and content ourselves with saying that we are exceedingly sorry Judge Cooper made it necessary for us to write the article which excited his wrath, but having written it we stand by it. That article was written in defense of a people that we believed he had treated with the utmost unfairness. He had used his official position, and the weight that official position gave to an utterance from him, to say things of us that if true branded the people of this county as unfit to live among. He went to Bath county and delivered himself of that eloquent (?) charge of which we hope he is now, himself thoroughly ashamed, we know he should be if he is not. The utterances on that occasion were a blow at the business interests of every man in this county. They were calculated to injure every man's business and lower the value of all property in the county, to say nothing of the low plain upon which he sought to pitch the morals of the community. We defended our own people and in order to break the force of what he had said we drew the veil aside, just a little, in order that the world might look in for a moment upon the Judge's own record. He got mad about it. Well, we can't help it.

Our Circuit Judge delivered himself on last Monday afternoon of an unusual harangue, yepeled instructions to the grand jury. It was a noisy, pompous, self-conceited, illiterate speech which, lamentable though it be, was beneath the dignity of any man or office, he be in position high or humble. The Advocate's criticism has gone forth and not one paragraph or word, to the dotting of an "i" or crossing of a "t", have we had occasion to give, we are grieved to say, to atone for or to in any sense modify.

For a high judicial officer to so deport himself by word or act as to forfeit the respect of decent law-abiding citizens, is a source of the profoundest regret. What a God-given boon it is that men cannot see themselves as others see them. Blessed it is that the most blatant ignoramus never sees his real deformed, countenances like ours. It requires innumerable characters to make up this world of ours. There are men and devils, beautiful warbling songsters and vomiting vultures, beasts clean and unclean; the world, we say, is composed of diversified characters and the good are necessarily compelled to deal with the distasteful; but to the honest, true and faithful even the smell of fire will not be on their garments. We are known to this community, so is His Honor on the Circuit bench. He may heap upon us all the contemptuous epithets at his command, and yet we are willing for the people of our own dear Montgomery county to sit in judgment on us and him, and whatever may be their verdict we shall continue to bear the banner of good order and equity and to defend our people against vituperative abuse from any source whatever.

We are satisfied that if Judge Cooper could have seen how, from all over the county, the very best men in it came to the Advocate office during the two weeks succeeding our issue of February 26, and thanked us for voicing their sentiments, he would promptly either set about reinstating himself in their good opinion or resign his office and leave the district.

At an adjourned meeting of the City Council last Wednesday evening a resolution was presented to that body for passage, which, after reciting the granting of a franchise to the Mt. Sterling Water Works Company, and the transferring of same to John P. Martin, was as follows:

"Now, the said City Council, at the request of the said Martin, hereby resolves and agrees that it will pay said rentals, or whatever of same that may become due under its contracts with said Martin, his associates and assigns, or to whomsoever may become the holders of the bonds indebtedness against said water and light plants after due notice of their holding same, but do not agree to pay at any time more than is due under its contract made for light and water with the said John P. Martin, his associates and assigns."

This resolution failed to pass, but after cutting out the words, "to whomsoever may become the holder of the bonds indebtedness against said water and light plants after due notice of their holding same," it passed the Council, and is now taking the signature of the Mayor in order to make it binding.

The Council should studiously avoid entanglements, and such a resolution will be carefully passed upon by the City Attorney, in whose judgment and foresight we have implicit confidence.

The Supreme Court of the United States has from time to time delayed action on the income tax case before them and in the mean time property is being assessed and taxes paid. The delay is an argument that the law will be sustained from the very fact that the court would hardly postpone announcement, when a contrary opinion would bring about many unnecessary inconveniences.—Louisville Times.

We are not going to intimate that we think it one of the unpardonable sins for a man to drink whiskey now and then, even should he get more than a little full; but the law that Judge Cooper is sworn to uphold says a man should not sell liquors on Sunday. We would respectfully suggest to the grand jury to call Judge Cooper before them and ask if he knows of anyone who has violated the Sunday law recently.

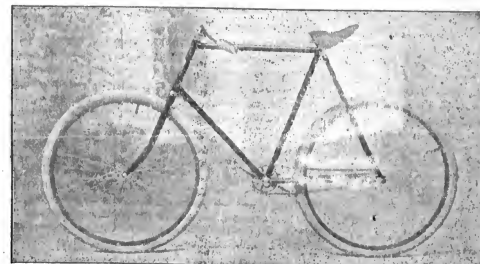

Judge Cooper's estimate of us, to the contrary notwithstanding, the Advocate most earnestly urges the Grand Jury, to listen to his honor's instructions so far as they touched upon the the Blair lynching, and bring to justice the perpetrators of that outrage, if possible.

A New Rifle.

The new Mauser rifle, loaded with a smokeless, high explosive powder, was tried at Fort McHenry lately. It developed that the ball would hold up nearly two miles when the gun is fired from the level of the shoulder, and at 2,000 yards "it will have force enough to go through the bodies of seven men."

New York Importers of tea predict a decided increase in the price of tea on account of the present state of affairs on the island of Formosa, whence comes the celebrated Oolong article. The longer China and Japan daily about peace, they say, the higher Oolong tea will go.

Into the Waste Basket.

We have very many times stated through our columns that all communications addressed to the Advocate and unaccompanied by the signature of the writer will go to the waste basket. The rule is invariable. The demand for the signature is not for publication, but as a guarantee of good faith. The past few weeks have seen a number of communications go to the waste basket. "O. O. Sellers" yours was among the number.

The eighth annual contest of the Kentucky Inter-State Collegiate Oratorical Association came off in Lexington on last Friday night. There was a large crowd at the Opera House, as usual, and the young men representing the different colleges each made good speeches. The judges were Hon. Evan E. Settle, of Owensboro; Senator R. H. Elliott, of Williamstown; and Judge James H. Hazlrigg, of this city. Mr. J. M. Shelburn, of Georgetown College, was awarded first honors, and Mr. J. C. Smith, of Kentucky University, second honors.

Sensational Weekly Paper.

A weekly paper to be published on Saturday is soon to be started in Lexington by T. J. Picher and L. S. Sterritt, of Nicholasville. The paper, it is said, will expose a great deal of corruption in municipal politics and some say the Blue Grass Blade will not be in it as far as sensations are concerned.

The Springfield, Ill., Postoffice was robbed of about $8,000 last week. It was altogether the nearest and most mysterious job ever put up in that city, and there is not the faintest clue to the perpetrators. The amount taken, with the exception of about $30, was stamps, and it was abstracted from the vault in Postmaster Ridgely's private office.

Doing a Good Work.

The Sun Life Insurance Company which has for some time been operating in our midst, is making the beneficiaries it is able to bestow on those who are insured with it, more and more apparent each day. The promptness with which Mr. Backley, the local superintendent and his assistants, settle all losses, highly commends it to its patrons. In one week lately it paid out in death claims over $450 to nine families that would otherwise have had to call on the town or county for assistance in burying the dead. The little weekly sums collected from those insured in it is not missed by the insured, and this company in this way gives a class of people the benefits of a small insurance that could be offered on no other plan.

The proposition to construct an elevated electric railroad between Chicago and New York, which shall make a trip from one city to the other of but 12 hours duration seems in a fair way to be realized. In this age of electrical intricacies it is not by any means an unreasonable thing to look for an early consummation of the project. We have to come to thinking it impossible and few things improbable in the domain of man's improvement and advancement.

The sporting fraternity, of Seattle, Wash., recently exercised over the absence of Jack Perry and Joe Galloway, who were shanghaied at Port Townsend, Sunday of last week, by Captain Rotherly, of the British ship Dunstable, whom they had fled. Relieving McKinley.
Facts and Figures the Result of Republican Legislation.

Senator Frye, of Maine, magnanimously states that Mr. McKinley was more responsible than several other men for the tariff which usually bears his name. He instances Speaker Reed and the Republican leaders in the Senate as equally responsible for that measure.

"The amenities of politics have seldom had a more beautiful illustration than this affords. That the Senator from Maine should be willing to divide Governor McKinley's handicap with several of his rivals is indeed generous. The McKinley law, so called, was the first measure ever framed in a civilized country on the policy of decreasing revenues by increasing taxes. It brought upon the Republican party a crushing defeat in 1890. It contributed largely to the second and more complete disaster in 1892. There would be injustice in asking its putative father to bear alone the odium when seeking a nomination for President in 1896.

"But it was not disaster to the Republican party alone which this law wrought. Under its operation wages either declined or stood still, and according to official estimates nearly 1,000,000 workers were out of employment in some of the months after it went into effect. Some of the most desperate and bloody labor strikes and lockouts known in the history of our country followed closely after its enactment. "Not only so but the customs revenues fell off $157,000,000 during the four years' life of the McKinley tariff. In the same period the expenditures of the Government exceed the receipts by $31,000,000, while in the preceding four years the excess of revenue amounted to $387,000,000. A Treasury surplus of nearly $100,000,000 and a yearly surplus revenue of the same amount both disappeared, and Secretary Foster actually had bond plates prepared to meet the impending deficiency.

"Equally damaging is the fact that during the McKinley-Harrison period the net loss in gold exports was $123,621,000, while in the Democratic quadrennial preceding it there was a net gain in gold imports of $51,772,000.

"In view of these and other like facts it is not too much to say that Senator Frye is really almost chivalric in his generosity."—New York World.

It is Democracy or Republicanism for the salvation of the country. Republicanism is McKinleyism and McKinleyism is on record. "Facts and figures will not lie." Men may change, but principles never change.

The results from the McKinley law have been a matter hard to correct. Our country to-day is suffering from it, and to accept Republican principles is to add more direful results. It has been well said that it is legislation which enhances the rich man's prospects by taking from the poor. The people must act wisely or suffer the consequences.

William Shippl (white), of Midway, shot and killed Sam Brown, a young colored man, at Brown's own door in Lexington Saturday night. Young Shippl had brought his mother to Lexington to attend the Miller's meeting, and after the service was over went to Brown's house to see the latter's wife with whom Shippl had for some time sustained unlawful relation. Brown not him at the door and after a short quarrel shot him. Shippl escaped and at last accounts had not been arrested.

Tips on a probable decision of the Court of Appeals can only be given for what they are worth. It is said by the knowing ones at Frankfort that the decision in the bank tax cases will be against the banks, and that there will be a divided court in the L. and N. C. O. and S. W. case.

There are ten diverse cases on the docket of the Madison Circuit Court at the present term.

THE AFGHANS

Have Undaunted Courage, But They are Revengeful.

The courage and undaunted boldness of the Afghan will bear comparison with that of any nation, and many are the instances of personal bravery known to British officers. There live in the Yusufai country an old chieftain, the hero of many fights, who now enjoys a well-earned pension, with the village minor as a reward for honorable service, and who on more than one occasion risked his own life to save that of his commanding officer. The present editor of the Loudon Evening Globe records with gratitude the fact that 20 years ago his life was saved by Afzal Khan, the recent envoy to the Cuban court. Major Wigram Battey, whom I buried at Jellalabad, fell on the battlefield of Fatahabad in the conquest of Afghan territory, but they were Afghan soldiers of his own regiment who stood over his dead body to protect it from insult. The missionary Tait was attacking the faith of the Moslem in the streets of an Afghan city, when his life was attempted by an assassin, but it was his Afghan servant who saved the preacher's life, even in the midst of popular tumult.

Colon Mackenzie, one of the Cuban prisoners of 1842, often told the story of the Afghan chivalry which protected the lives and honor of English ladies in the excitement of national rebellion. Nor are they slow to appreciate the quality of bravery in others. In the frontier war of 1863, a young English officer was deserted by his native sepoy, and for some time held his own in the midst of a crowd of Afghan warriors. When the brave young soldier fell, covered with wounds, the very men who cut him down bore testimony to the indomitable pluck of the young Englishman, who, rather than run with his men, faced the foe, and died like a man. They raised one united shout in the Afghan language as he fell: "Bravo! Bravo! There's a brave young fellow!" They are a revengeful and jealous—Horne and Connelley.

"Society" Wheel.

Last year, Newport, R. I., set the pace among the fashionable in the line of bicycle riding. This year, it looks as though Lakewood, N. J., would be a cycling center. Lakewood, as everybody knows, is the favorite abiding place of many of the upper crust of New York, and the place sprang into note not so very long ago by reason of the establishment there of several exclusive hotels and many cottages.

At present there is quite a furore among the London residents at Lakewood over cycling. Dozens of the disciples of the late lamented Ward McAllister are daily taking lessons, and, from being a present day fad among the notables, the recreation of cycling promises to become as deep-rooted at Lakewood as elsewhere.

The more exclusive sets of society are commencing to see that they can indulge in cycling just as well as in carriage riding, and, in fact, that the recreation has more attractions than the luxuriously disposed would at first imagine possible, and so cycling grows.—American Wheelman.
